

CURRICULUM VITAE
ANTHONY GORDON RUD JR.

PROFESSIONAL MISSION

I am dedicated to bringing the perspective of philosophy of education, particularly research on the moral dimensions of teaching, learning, and leadership development, to the improvement of education at all levels. Reflection upon the philosophical and especially moral dimensions of education informs my research, teaching, and service.

RESEARCH AND CREATIVE ENDEAVORS

I have national visibility in the cultural foundations of education, and bring that perspective to work with colleagues. My undergraduate and graduate study of the philosopher Hegel urges me to see the broad context of education, and synthetic relationships among other areas in the field of education and other disciplines. In addition, I believe that being a public intellectual willing to interact with many others is essential for a philosopher of education. I endeavor to offer philosophical and historical perspectives to a variety of forums, including collaboration with colleagues in engineering, veterinary medicine, and the arts and sciences.

PROFESSIONAL SERVICE

I have served six international professional societies (American Educational Research Association, American Educational Studies Association, American Philosophical Association, John Dewey Society, Philosophy of Education Society, and Society of Professors of Education), and have risen to leadership positions at Purdue University and Washington State University (University Press, University Senate, Faculty Senate, Presidential Commission). I have been a member of the boards of major journals in my field and in related fields. I was chair of the Center Advisory Board for the Harmony Institute, Harmony, Florida, a major responsibility and honor, and led an international team in advising the planning of a new town, especially the Harmony Institute's educational offerings and research opportunities.

My university, college, departmental, and program area leadership roles at Purdue were diverse. Some of the highlights include frequent presentations on research ethics and the responsible conduct of research to student groups in the Colleges of Education, Science, and Engineering; work as liaison to the Holmes Partnership; leadership in the School's teacher education reform; chair of the PDS steering committee; chair of the Task Force on Master's Program Realignment; chair of the Task Force on Special Education; and chair of educational leadership and cultural foundations program area meetings. Provide leadership at Washington State University in a variety of roles.
